Situated in the heart of the city's historic district, close to the River Duero and the Romanesque church of Santa María de Horta. The hotel occupies part of the ancient San Juan de Jerusalem convent, built in the fourteenth and fifteenth century, the first light and an old distillery. The new use given to this architectural group combines elegance and sobriety, with the most modern design and equipment to guarantee the most comfortable accommodations in a location which is extraordinarily rich in history and culture.

Restaurant La Vinícola

La Vinícola

The restaurant La Vinícola is considered one of the most important in the area of Zamora for its cuisine, which is a combination of traditional Castilian cuisine with contemporary cuisine.

Our Cuisine

La Vinícola restaurant has a very warm reputation in Zamora and is already seen as one of the most important restaurants in the area. This is due to its cuisine that mixes traditional Castilian cuisine with modern trends, as for its inviting, minimalist atmosphere. Located in the interior of what was a former 15th century Order of St. John of Jerusalem convent, the restaurant combines the remains of the historical dome of the convent, the first electric company, and the former liquor factory.

Its head chef, Nacho Martínez, offers a daily menu for 22€ during the working week. On weekends, many people come to sample the specialties offered from within the menu. Without a doubt, the best way to try a combination of dishes is to opt for the sampling menu.

In addition, every Thursday the Palace Stew is offered. For 16€ you can try the succulent cocido (stew) prepared in the traditional way.

Martínez's culinary enterprising can also be appreciated in special cuisine days held in September dedicated to wild game and in October and November dedicated to fresh mushrooms.

The lower level of the restaurant, in addition to housing an excellent cellar with the best selected wines from within the land, is an inviting place to hold banquets.

The summer terrace, next to the 12th century Romanesque church Santa María de la Horta, makes it a beautiful place to have a drink.

Interesting to note is that each season, Francisco Somoza, the building's architect, adds his personal touch to the menu by painting watercolor landscapes of his native region.

Hours of operation: Monday to Sunday, 1:30-4:00 p.m. and 8:30-11:30 p.m.
